
Parametric-support control uses learned reference vectors instead of Train cases. It is an ablation, not a claim of memory gain.